

Rebuilding Trust, Restoring Ambition: Civil Society Expectations for the Next INC Chair

Dear members of the INC Bureau,

On behalf of the undersigned organizations, we are writing to acknowledge the Bureau's role in facilitating the process of the election of a new Chair for the Intergovernmental Negotiating Committee (INC) tasked with advancing the future plastics treaty and to share our expectations for the priorities that will be critical to advancing the negotiations toward a strong and ambitious treaty. This election comes at a crucial moment. The INC has a clear mandate from UNEA Resolution 5/14 to deliver a legally binding instrument that covers the full life cycle of plastics. Fulfilling that mandate requires leadership that is fair, transparent, and committed to the public interest.

As civil society, our role is to support this Member State-led process, ensuring that the treaty that is finalized and adopted adequately addresses the crisis at hand. The INC process, as it has progressed thus far, is not getting us closer to the treaty that the world needs. The new Chair must help restore trust in the process, ensure transparency and inclusivity, and steer the process towards outcomes grounded in science, human rights, environmental health, and environmental justice. In that vein, we would like to request that the new Chair:

- Ensures meaningful participation of civil society, rights holders, and independent scientists, including early and equitable access to information, adequate space for interventions, and structured spaces for dialogue between the Chair's office and rights holders.
- Strengthens transparency, efficiency, and predictability in the working methods of the INC, so that Member State, rights holder, and observer inputs are genuinely considered and proposals with broad support are not sidelined.
- Supports the provisional application of all rules of procedure, such that decisions can be made by a vote if all attempts at consensus have failed.
- Protects the integrity of the process from interference from actors with vested interests by establishing clear conflict-of-interest safeguards.
- Safeguards the independence and integrity of the INC and ensures that it remains a Member State-driven process, where the INC Secretariat and UNEP play a facilitative role and do not exert political influence on the Chair's office or the process.
- Keeps the focus on fulfilling the UNEA 5/14 mandate.

The next Chair, with the Bureau's guidance and the INC's confidence, has an opportunity to reinvigorate ambition and steer the treaty negotiations toward a treaty that truly ends plastic pollution across its full life cycle. We remain eager to support the negotiations and play our role as the conscience keepers of the process and voice of the most impacted communities to ensure that the planet, its ecosystems and the future generations get the treaty called for by the crisis we are facing.
